Popular Affordable Accommodation in Tokyo

In Tokyo, there are a number of accommodation styles beside hotels. "Share House" is one of the most popular accommodations for people who are staying in Tokyo for a few weeks to a few months. Typical share houses have individual bedrooms for each occupant, with shared kitchen and bathrooms. If you are looking for the cheapest alternative, some share houses have dormitory-type rooms where several people share a room with bunk beds.

Please note that some of the share houses charge by month only, so make sure that the room you are reserving charges daily or weekly (it is usually still cheaper to pay for a month than staying in a hotel).

There are also "Weekly Apartments" where you can stay in furnished studio-type apartments. They cost more than share houses, but it is much more reasonable than staying in hotels.

Please note that these types of accommodation tend not to allow you to reserve rooms until 1 – 2 months before your stay.

Weekly Apartment LIVEMAX

Most rooms are furnished with TV, air conditioner, fridge, bed (separate fee for bedding), internet access. Some rooms can be shared by 2 or more people. Each apartment has different rate, so please contact the agent through the website below. Only the Japanese page has the online search system.

<Example>

"Max Dogenzaka Shibuya" (15min walk from campus): 137,000 JPY (18 nights, single use, various charges included)
